October, 2009 at Expo Boeuf in Victoriaville, Quebec:
Eric Hontang of Casteljaloux, France judged the Piedmontese and Blonde D' Aquitaine cattle at this year's 150th Anniversary Expo event. Judge Hontang is a noted breeder of Blonde d' Aquitaine cattle in France and he spoke with competitors after the show to explain how he selects breeding stock. The first thing he wanted to see was good pelvis development for calving ease, correct legs and, what surprised us all, the thickness of skin on each animal. He explained to us that the thinner the skin the better they will produce milk. If they did not meet his criteria for these traits, he continued with the cattle that did. Below are the class winners, and over all division Champions and reserves from the 2009 National Show.
